Dear Darrel:

The week of September 17 to September 23 is Constitution Week. This has been proclaimed by President Nixon and will be proclaimed on Guam by Governor Camacho with special references to Guam's First Constitutional Convention.

I would appreciate your urging the social studies teachers to observe this week in their classes and to pay special attention to Guam's Constitutional Convention.

There will be a general session of the Convention of Monday, September 15. Perhaps the teachers could be encouraged to arrange a field trip for their students that evening or grant "extra credit" of some sort to the students who attend. The meeting will be held at 7:00 p.m. in the University of Guam Library Audio Visual Room.

If you think of other ways to promote this event in the schools, please let me know.
