

University of Guam

COLLEGE OF ARTS & SCIENCES

P. O. BOX EK AGANA, GUAM 96910

DEPT. OF HISTORY, PHILOSOPHY, & POLITICAL SCIENCE

PROPOSED BUDGET

New Constitution Educational Program

The Department of History, Philosophy, and Political Science of the University of Guam has sufficient personnel with the necessary background in Political Science and Education to conduct a full scale educational program on the new Constitution of Guam.

Dr. Robert Rogers and Dr. Bast, the former Director of Research for the Constitutional Convention, have prepared an extensive analysis of the new Constitution during the summer of 1978. They would direct the program. Consultants on law, the media, and governmental operations would be utilized for expert assistance.

We can be prepared to provide a comprehensive two phase program of education on the proposed Constitution. In the first phase, we will prepare a set of direct, simple documents outlining the major provisions of the Constitution, comparing the Constitution with the Organic Act and impartially evaluating the merits of the proposed Constitution. In the second phase, we will distribute this material through all appropriate media (newspapers, brochures, government memos, etc.) over the period from February until the referendum is held. We will offer a series of village seminars to explain and discuss the Constitution. Finally, we would present a series of television and radio programs on the Constitution, utilizing the previously prepared material.

We will be able to present written materials in Chamorro and English, and all seminar, radio and television presentations can also be conducted in Chamorro and English.